Student Success

Scholarships, Physical Accessibility, Internships, and Service

Imagine how students can shape their lives when barriers are removed. Imagine how students who have learned skills and attitudes of commitment, compassion, and human dignity will shape the world.

Burman students serving in a Red Deer soup kitchen know that service isn't an event—it's a way of life.

▶ $3 Million: Student Success

Everyone should be able to access higher education to move forward to greater understanding, faith, and service

Although we currently make available $1.4 million in entrance scholarships, we are called to do even more for academically gifted students and for those who face economic hardships.

Burman welcomes students, but the campus, with its multi-storied buildings located on a hilltop, proves challenging for people with disabilities and mobility issues. Additional ramps are needed, as are elevators and barrier-free washrooms.

Learning Today — Leading Tomorrow

Students come to Burman University to prepare themselves for careers. An active internship program will give students life skills and connections for future employment.

Service is a core value at Burman. The majority of the student body is involved in volunteer projects, but the University wants to ensure that students are even better prepared to act with compassion and commitment. We hope to hire a service and internship coordinator and to provide a small subsidy to students involved in service.
